CLOUD READINESS & OPTIMISATION

Simplify cloud adoption, minimise risk and optimise your software licence investment with our Cloud Readiness and Optimisation Service.

Whether you’re a large Local Government Authority, Housing Association or University, the need for an agile, flexible, secure and cost-effective infrastructure is more important than ever. Adopting a cloud strategy, if implemented effectively, will reduce cost, provide scalability and enhance security.

THE CHALLENGES

• Being able to gain a transparent view on whether on-premise, hybrid or cloud is the correct way forward for your organisation
• A lack of knowledge regarding licensing options to support the adoption of cloud services
• Determining which is the best cost model for your organisation
• Analysing the performance and readiness of your current infrastructure
ARE YOU READY TO MAKE THE MOVE?

The process for any organisation seeking to move part or all of their infrastructure to the cloud can be extremely daunting. Phoenix Software’s Cloud Readiness and Optimisation Service provides a comprehensive analysis of your desktop and infrastructure strategy to prepare your environment as you look to onboard cloud services.

By taking into consideration your current software deployment, licence data and usage, this service will establish your current state of readiness while providing insight into the cost as well as business and technology benefits of moving workloads to the cloud.

START YOUR JOURNEY WITH THE RIGHT INFORMATION

Utilising a powerful toolset, our Cloud Readiness and Optimisation Service acts as a starting point for getting relevant information about your environment. With minimum impact to your network and environment, the report contains information on:

- Workload Components
- Cloud Feasibility Analysis
- Cloud Migration Strategy
- PaaS Recommendation
- VM Instance Recommendations
- Storage Recommendations
- Network Summary
- Remaining on-premise Infrastructure Summary
