

CUSTOMER CASE STUDY

LEEDS BECKETT UNIVERSITY

Leeds Beckett University embrace digital change, increasing collaboration across students and staff with Microsoft Office 365.

Leeds Beckett University supports students from a wide range of backgrounds helping them to become critical thinkers and preparing them for the work environment.

They were looking for a clear logical technology road map which would help implement solutions in a way that would deliver core results for both staff and students.

Leeds Beckett chose to work with Phoenix as they demonstrated they wanted to be more than just a supplier. They listened and didn't impose a solution but went away and thought about the approach to the problems and opportunities presented.

Phoenix has helped in a number of ways to bring digital change to the university which has also resulted in a big impact on disability services and distance learning, attracting "Phoenix have helped in a number of ways and delivered digital change to the University. This includes helping them to migrate from Google to Office 365 and that has developed further to help them maximise the full modern desktop experience with Microsoft. They have rolled out Office 365 Windows 10 and we've also started to focus on the accessibility features within Microsoft 365 and we've seen the impact that it's had on disability services, distance learning and allowed Leeds Beckett University to actually attract more students."

Craig Taylor - Cloud Solutions Director
Phoenix Software

more students, providing better learning experiences and additional value for teachers, academics and students.

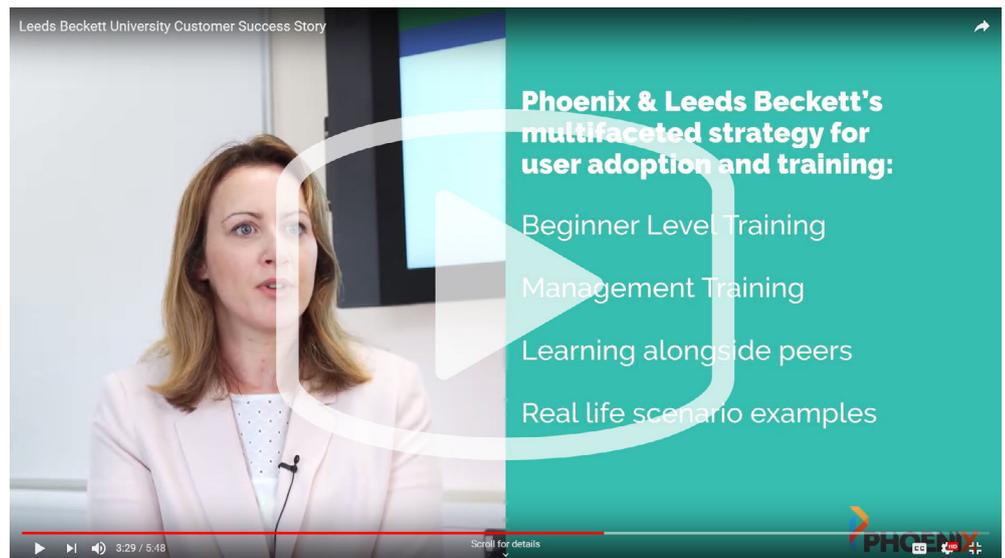

“As a head of subject, I have to deal with some very confidential matters in my day-to-day work. Using Office 365 has been brilliant in terms of that because I can make sure that anything that's confidential or secure can go up into the cloud and I know there that it's very safe. So in terms of Office 365 it's that flexibility, it's having the files everywhere and anywhere, but also very much about the security, you know they are under lock and key.”

Dr Graham Parton
Head of Subject, Teacher Education
Leeds Beckett University

“Phoenix demonstrated that they wanted to be more than just a supplier, they wanted to listen to actually what our problem was not to impose a solution but to go away think about how they might approach the problems and opportunities that we were pointing out and then have a dialogue about moving that forward. We really wanted to work with a partner so that we could make the most out of a potential investment and actually drive co-creation and collaboration across the University.”

Neil Buckland – Associate Director IT Operations - Leeds Beckett University

Watch Leeds Beckett University's story by clicking here <https://bit.ly/2MvAFoT> or on the video image below.

TRUE PARTNERSHIPS. REMARKABLE OUTCOMES.

To find out how we can work together to assist your organisation modernise and enable your workforce, students and citizens, contact the Phoenix Team:

01904 562200
hello@phoenixs.co.uk